Devil's Island by Frank de Sales

Cover art and bottle illustration for Devil's Island a novel by Frank De Sales.

Yogoorus

I was approached to create a brand identity for a frozen yogurt company with no logo, colour scheme or even company name.

I came up with the name, logo, CI, shop front design elements, promotion flyers, menus and designed and developed the website.

one 2 one group

A merger between Andrew Howes Photography and Fast Forward Photo formed one 2 one group. I was given free reign on concept and colours with a very minimal brief and only went through 5 or 6 different concepts before the client decided on which direction they wanted to go for the brand.

I designed the log, CI, business cards, email signatures, letter heads and designed and developed the website.

Kaizania

Formerly Kazania Academies, our client purchased the company and needed a brand refresh.

I modernised the logo, created the CI, designed their stationary, including; PPT template, business cards, folders, letterhead, signatures and designed and developed the website.

Probe Corporation

I have been involved with the Probe Corporation for almost 8 years designing, developing and maintaining both of their websites as well as most of their print material, exhibition stand elements, magazine ads, flyers and other ad-hoc advertising.

I also developed all of their web applications, including; an automotive battery finder, battery warranty registration and battery catalogue.

Blue Gill Imports

A discount warehouse which sold everything from clothing to kitchen appliances that ran monthly specials for which I designed and layed out 4 page flyers for about 10 years.

Each month I would receive around 50 to 60 product photos which I had to retouch, deep etch, lay out with prices and prepare for print within 24 hours.

I also produced in-store posters, street pole ads and other ad-hoc flyers.
